

THE BARRE DAILY TIMES

FRIDAY, APRIL 7, 1911.

Published every week-day afternoon.
Subscriptions: One year, $3.00; one month, 25 cents; single copy, 1 cent.

Entered at the post office at Barre as second-class matter.

Frank E. Langley, Publisher.

The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending last Saturday was copies, the largest circulation of any daily paper in Vermont outside of Burlington.

5,700

Even the blizzard got gay in Poree.

Under the kindly influence of the weather man, all Vermont is gradually "coming back to the soil"; but it's hard digging.

The score stands a tie; Princeton, no president; university of Vermont, no president. Boston university has broken out of the tie.

Here's to a longer life for Major L. A. Abbott camp, Sons of Veterans, than was allowed its predecessors in Barre. There is a work for such an organization.

In Massachusetts it's Charles Stetchem Mellen; in New Hampshire, Charles Soak-em Mellen; in Vermont, as yet, only Charles Seek-em Mellen. We may get the stretching and soaking later.

Vermont finds itself in good company; nearly every New England state has decided to abolish the common drinking cup. Remember that May 1 is the date for the ban, as settled on by the Vermont state board of health.

Carter Harrison owes his election as mayor of Chicago, in part at least, to the disinclination of many supporters of Prof. Merriam, his opponent, to go to the polls because of a fine drizzle of rain. It is a poor brand of citizenship which is squelched by a little water from the clouds, no matter what side that citizenship represents.

An over-eager correspondent, who had Fred L. Davis, Vermont's popular cattle commissioner, married two weeks ago, was simply an exponent of the ahead-of-the-minute journalism. More leisurely, Mr. Davis finally justified the report by becoming married yesterday. The congratulations formerly extended throughout Vermont will bear repetition.

The first week of Congress has ended without apparent progress toward consummating that for which it was called in extraordinary session; but few people expected Congress to take hold of the matter so promptly as they would a proposition which it felt like conquering without a struggle. Canadian reciprocity is a matter which cannot be settled in a day and a night because of its revolutionary character. The coming week ought, however, to see a good start made one way or the other, either to its adoption or its rejection.

A CASE STILL UNSETTLED.

Positive statements and positive denials in the reopened Lorimer case indicate that there is something which ought to be investigated more thoroughly than has been done, ere the matter of unseating the Illinois senator is allowed to rest. Comes one man with the unqualified assertion that he was approached by a certain person with a request for $10,000 to add to the Lorimer fund, and now comes this man of the second part with a declaration that the former statement is false. Who is lying? And what is he lying for? There is a nigger in the woodpile somewhere—somebody's nigger. It ought to be an act of self-respect on the Senate's part to reopen the Lorimer investigation and determine by what right William Lorimer is holding a seat in so high a place of responsibility as the United States Senate, or to silence forever these insinuations which are being brought up at frequent intervals concerning the election methods used to secure Lorimer's election. The way the matter rests at present is unconvincing.

DRUGGIST'S LICENSES.

By endeavoring to dispense with fifth class, or druggist, licenses in their city through a prohibitive fee, the Rutland license commissioners have overlooked

Doesn't it make you tired, this continual claim "we have the BEST?"

No one make of clothing is the BEST because the BEST is not confined to any one maker. Some excel in certain points but in other points may not equal other makers. We study the market and buy from a number of "the best." This gives our customers advantages as we can show more variety in fabric and style than stores controlled by a manufacturer.

Here are suits from $10 to $35 and sold with our personal guarantee. Your money back for the asking.

the intent of the law which permits druggists to sell liquor under a license; and any number of second class saloons will not fill the requirements which the druggist license was especially designed to meet. The provisions of the law in that particular may have been violated, but the druggist license was intended to provide a place for the sale of liquors for medicinal purposes only (and liquor for medicinal purposes is generally accepted as a necessity nowadays.) By virtually prohibiting the sale of liquor for such purposes from drug stores, the commissioners are imposing a hardship on a certain portion of the public which uses the provisions of that section of the law in good faith. Many people, chiefly women, are decidedly averse to entering a saloon for the purchase of liquor, and still the necessities of domestic life very often require the use of the liquor. Heretofore, they have been able to meet their necessities by purchase at the drug stores with the aid of a physician's prescription. Now they will be forced to make the purchases at the second class saloons. It is not doing the right thing by such a considerable portion of the general public to prohibit the medicinal sale of liquor, for the fee of $800 for a single license does virtually prohibit a druggist from applying for a license. Moreover, it places the druggist on practically the same fee charge as the holders of licenses, who sell without prescription and to any but drunkards and minors.

Feeling Contented.

There is nothing like being contented. We heard one man remark the other day that he had rather be wallowing in the snow in Vermont than in the mud in Missouri. He had been in both and knew what he was talking about.—St. Johnsbury Republican.
